

CONTRIBUTORS

JEFF FRIEDEN is a doctoral candidate in the Department of Political Science, Columbia University. His fields of specialization include Western European politics and comparative Communism. He is the author of a number of articles and chapters in symposium volumes on the politics of international economic relations, his dissertation research field.

RASMA KARKLINS is Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science at the University of Illinois at Chicago Circle. She received her Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, where she wrote her dissertation on the interrelationship of Soviet foreign and nationality policies. She is the author of several articles on Soviet nationality policy in Canadian Slavonic Papers, Soviet Studies, and Cahiers du Monde Russe et Sovietique. The present study is based on an interview project with Soviet German emigrants concerning ethnic relations in the U.S.S.R. which was directed by Professor Karklins during 1979-1980.

JOHN H. KAUTSKY is Professor of Political Science at Washington University in St. Louis. He has held research fellowships from the Harvard Russian Research Center, the Rockefeller Foundation, the National Science Foundation, and the National Endowment for the Humanities. In addition, he has been a research associate at Harvard and at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Professor Kautsky is the author of Moscow and the Communist Party of India (1956), an editor and coauthor of Political Change in Underdeveloped Countries: Nationalism and Communism (1962), and the author of Communism and Politics of Development (1968), The Political Consequences of Modernization (1972), Patterns of Modernizing Revolutions: Mexico and the Soviet Union (1975), The Politics of Aristocratic Empires (forthcoming), and numerous articles on the politics of modernization and Communism. He wrote his doctoral dissertation at Harvard (1951) and several articles on Karl Kautsky.