

Contributors

KAZIMIERZ J. ZANIEWSKI is a Lecturer of Geography at the University of Wisconsin–Oshkosh. He completed his Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin–Milwaukee in 1987. His research interests are population, economic, and social geography of Eastern Europe.

DAVID J. KOSTELANCIK is a graduate student in the Department of Political Science at the University of Michigan.

CAROL R. SAIVETZ is a Fellow at the Russian Research Center, Harvard University and a visiting Associate Professor in the Department of Political Science at the Tufts University. Professor Saivetz writes on Soviet policy in the Third World with special emphasis on the Middle East. She is the author of The Soviet Union and the Gulf in the 1980s, co-author of Soviet–Third World Relations, and editor of The Soviet Union in the Third World.

RICHARD C. KRAUS is a Professor of Political Science at University of Oregon and a Visiting Scholar at Fujian Teachers' University, Fuzhou, People's Republic of China. Professor Kraus writes on internal developments in China. He is the author of Class Conflict in Chinese Socialism and Pianos and Politics in China: Middle Class Ambitions and the Struggle over Western Culture.

ELIE REKHESS is a Senior Research Associate at the Moshe Dayan Center for Middle Eastern Studies, Tel Aviv University. He is currently a Visiting Professor at the Philip and Muriel Berman Center for Jewish Studies at Lehigh University. Professor Rekhe's academic research focuses on the politics of the Arabs in Israel, the resurgence of Islam in Palestinian society, and on political developments in the West Bank and Gaza. He is the author of a forthcoming book Between Communism and Arab Nationalism: Rakah and the Arab Minority in Israel.