

Communist and Post-Communist Studies

VOLUME 53 NUMBER 3
SEPTEMBER 2020

ARTICLES

- “Democracy Is Not for Everyone”: Nationalist Homophobia in Eastern Europe and Opposition to Liberal Democracy in the European Union 1
PIOTR ŻUK AND PAWEŁ ŻUK
- The Shades of Communism: The Basis of Political Divisions in the Republic of Macedonia 22
TRAJCHE PANOV AND DANE TALESKI
- Moving Forward or Turning Back? Slovak Parties and the Future of the EU 43
JAN KOVÁŘ
- Legitimation of Private Property in the Means of Production in Ukraine: Dynamics and Factors 64
VOLODYMYR REZNIK AND OLEKSANDR REZNIK
- Empire Loyalism and Nationalism in Ukraine and Ireland: Comparing the Sources of Conflict in the Donbas and Ulster 88
TARAS KUZIO
- The Strange Case of Welfare Chauvinism in Eastern Europe 107
MARKO GRDEŠIĆ
- Combating the Threats of Cybercrimes in Russia: Evolution of the Cybercrime Laws and Social Concern 123
ROMAN DREMLIUGA, OLGA DREMLIUGA, AND PAVEL KUZNETSOV
- Direct Actions in the Czech Environmental Movement 137
ARNOŠT NOVÁK
- Social Antinomies of Linguistic Consciousness: Russian Blogosphere Debates Crimea’s Incorporation 157
ELENA KRAVCHENKO AND TATIANA VALIULINA
- The Disappearance of Political Jokes in Post-Socialist Slovenia 172
PRIMOŽ MLAČNIK AND PETER STANKOVIĆ
- The “Šreter” Prizes: Tackling Contemporary Croatian Linguistic Purism (1993–2018) 189
SRĐAN M. JOVANOVIĆ

Erratum in: “The labour market and income distribution in post-socialist economies — Non-obvious regularities” by Jacek Tomkiewicz (Communist and Post-Communist Studies 2018; 51 (4): 315–324). <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.postcomstud.2018.10.006>

The acknowledgment of funding and support for this study by Transformation, Integration and Globalization Economic Research (TIGER) at the Kozminski University in Warsaw, Poland was omitted from the published article. This article was written as part of a research project financed by the Polish National Science Centre, decision number: DEC2013/09/B/HS4/01966.