February 2011

Vol. 110, No. 733

CONTENTS

- 43 Toodle-oo, Lula: Brazil Looks Forward with Dilma . . . . . Riordan Roett
Dilma Rousseff, Brazil's first woman president, likely aspires to more than maintaining her predecessor's policies and keeping his seat warm until the next election.
- 49 Central America's Security Predicament . . . . . Michael Shifter
An alarming rise in drug trafficking, street gangs, and violence in the subregion has shattered public security and threatens fragile political institutions.
- 56 The New Mercantilism:
China's Emerging Role in the Americas . . . . . Eric Farnsworth
Hungry for resources, the Chinese make offers that many Latin American leaders can't refuse: commercial relations without political or policy interference.
- 62 Why Latin America Is Rearming . . . . . Adam Isacson
Military spending sprees in the region have provoked fears of arms races. But most of the budget increases reflect internal security concerns and efforts to placate generals.
- 68 Drug Violence Isn't Mexico's Only Problem . . . . . Francisco González
In addition to restoring public safety, Mexico needs to reform dysfunctional political institutions and generate investment to boost economic growth.
- 75 Prepared or Not, Latin America
Faces the Challenge of Aging . . . . . George W. Leeson
Over the next 40 years, the number and proportion of old people in the region will surge. Governments have limited time in which to adjust. Fifth in a series on demographic dilemmas.

PERSPECTIVE

- 81 Rebuild Haiti, Not Just Its Capital . . . . . Robert Maguire
Port-au-Prince suffered most of the damage from a January 2010 earthquake. Even so, domestic and international aid efforts need to encompass the neglected rest of the country.

BOOKS

- 83 Latin America: Next Top Model? . . . . . William W. Finan Jr.
A new book argues that Latin American countries, having left behind their banana-republic past, will serve as exemplars for developed nations to follow.

THE MONTH IN REVIEW

- 86 December 2010
An international chronology of events in December, country by country, day by day.
