CONTENTS

- 91 Britain and Europe: The End of the Affair? Matthias Matthijs
London has long sought to shape continental affairs on its own terms and at arm's length. Now the relationship with Brussels is under greater strain than ever.
- 98 The Far Right and the European Elections Cas Mudde
Far right parties have exploited the Great Recession and seem poised to surge in European Parliament elections this May. Or is the conventional wisdom wrong?
- 104 Is the European Union's Soft Power in Decline? Karen E. Smith
The bloc has formidable resources for exerting persuasion and attraction abroad, but internal division weakens its hand. Sixth in a series on soft power around the world.
- 110 The Catastrophic Greek Crisis Manos Matsaganis
Economic collapse and brutal austerity imposed by outside powers have devastated Greek society and allowed extremist politics into the mainstream.
- 117 Bulgaria and Romania at Europe's Edge Stefanos Katsikas
Gaining acceptance in the EU has been especially arduous for these new member states. Their rough experience shows that integration is an ongoing project.
- PERSPECTIVE
- 123 The Transatlantic Pivot Daniel S. Hamilton
The United States and Europe must rebalance their partnership in order to face the political, economic, and security challenges of the twenty-first century.
- BOOKS
- 125 Turkey's Choice Joshua Lustig
In his new book, Soner Cagaptay warns that backsliding on democracy will endanger Turkey's growing power and prosperity—as recent events emphatically attest.
- THE MONTH IN REVIEW
- 127 January 2014
An international chronology of events in January, country by country, day by day.
