CONTENTS

- 43 The Root Causes of the Central American Crisis . . . . . José Miguel Cruz
Political transitions in Guatemala, El Salvador, and Honduras failed to build institutions that ensure economic security and the rule of law, driving tens of thousands to migrate to the United States.
- 49 The End of Chavismo? . . . . . David Smilde
After the death of Hugo Chávez two years ago, Venezuela's political and economic turmoil has exposed the unsustainability of a socialist regime based on charisma and oil revenue.
- 56 Curtains for Argentina's Kirchner Era . . . . . M. Victoria Murillo
As the long reign of a husband-and-wife dynasty winds down, the country is embroiled in a new sovereign debt default, and the future of their brand of Peronist populism is uncertain.
- 62 Old Ways and New Alternatives in Brazilian Politics . . . . . Kathryn Hochstetler and Marília Oliveira
Brazil's October 2014 presidential election yielded a second term for Dilma Rousseff, but it also demonstrated the growing appeal of a "third-way" challenge to the two mainstream parties.
- 68 Nationalism and Globalization in Latin America. . . . . James Siekmeier
Since the nineteenth century, Latin American nationalists have resisted the influence of the United States and global economic forces. Fifth in a series on resurgent nationalism around the world.
- PERSPECTIVE
- 73 Overcoming Cuba's Internal Embargo. . . . . Ted A. Henken and Archibald R.M. Ritter
Relations with Washington are suddenly warmer—but if Cuba wants a vibrant economy, it must allow its people to engage in entrepreneurship and enjoy unrestricted access to the Internet.
- BOOKS
- 77 The Long Struggle for Mexican American Rights . . . . . Alexandra Délano
A new book by Neil Foley traces the history of Mexicans in the United States and the discrimination they have faced due to persistent anti-immigrant fears.
- THE MONTH IN REVIEW
- 80 December 2014
An international chronology of events in December, country by country, day by day.
