Membership in the Society of Architectural Historians

The Society of Architectural Historians was founded in 1940 to advance the knowledge and understanding of the history of architecture, design, landscape, and urbanism worldwide. The Society serves scholars, professionals in allied fields (including architecture, historic preservation, and planning), and the interested general public by:

- Sponsoring the pursuit and presentation of scholarly research;
- Sponsoring forums for the presentation of scholarly research and exchange of ideas;
- Providing publications that disseminate scholarly work, professional information, and general information related to the field and of interest to the public;
- Acknowledging outstanding scholarly accomplishments in the field;
- Fostering scholarship, research, and education about the history of the built environment;
- Organizing study tours of significant buildings and sites both in the United States and abroad;
- Supporting the preservation of historic places and cultural heritage.

The Society is a constituent member of the American Council of Learned Societies. Membership is open to all who are interested in furthering the study, enjoyment, and preservation of architecture and its related arts. In addition to receiving the Society’s quarterly journal and bimonthly newsletter, members are eligible to attend the annual meeting, annual architectural tours abroad, and annual tours to regions of particular architectural interest in the United States or Canada. Subscription to the JSAH and the newsletter are available only with membership in the Society. Classes of membership are as follows:

A richly illustrated guide to the language of architecture

Architecture
Elements, Materials, Form
Francesca Prina
By way of more than 2,000 years of architectural history, this richly illustrated book defines and shows all the major components of the art—from theory, plans, and models to structural elements such as columns, arches, and domes, to materials and decorative elements. With beautiful color photographs on virtually every page, and precise captions that point directly to important aspects of each photo, this book provides an easy-to-use visual grammar of the nearly infinite variety with which the elements of architecture have been used in buildings across the ages and around the world.

“An unexpectedly enchanting and highly original book. What brings it to life is the author’s sensitivity to visual form. Again and again some simple architectural element is illustrated with an unexpected and delightful example, or facing pages juxtapose images of entirely different applications of an element, demonstrating the diversity and sheer creativity of architecture.”

BUILDINGS OF MASSACHUSETTS
Metropolitan Boston
KEITH N. MORGAN, with RICHARD M. CANDEE, NAOMI MILLER, ROGER G. REED, and CONTRIBUTORS
This latest volume in the Buildings of the United States series analyzes the architecture, landscape, and planning patterns of the capital of Massachusetts and forty surrounding cities and towns that fan out from Boston Harbor. Extensively illustrated with photographs and maps, and supplemented with a glossary and bibliography, the book assesses built form from initial colonial settlement in the 1630s through twenty-first-century additions to the Boston area landscape. The authors selected both exemplary and representative buildings and sites for inclusion.

UNBOUNDED PRACTICE
Women and Landscape Architecture in the Early Twentieth Century
THAÎSA WAY
“The story of American women as practitioners in the field of landscape design is one that has not been told before as completely as it is here. Way writes not just about women landscape designers but very insightfully about the landscape profession coming of age in the early twentieth century through the education and practices of both men and women. Unbounded Practice is an original and valuable work.”—ELIZABETH B. ROGERS, president of the Foundation for Landscape Studies and author of Landscape Design: A Cultural and Architectural History

THE HAND AND THE SOUL
Aesthetics and Ethics in Architecture and Art
EDITED BY SANDA ILIESCU
“At a time when everything is regarded as mere appearance, image, fashion, and style, we need to be reminded of the real essence of beauty and its relationship with ethical values and judgments, as the thoughtful essays in The Hand and the Soul certainly do.”—JUHANI PÄALSTAMA, architect, author of The Thinking Hand: Embodied and Existential Wisdom in Architecture and The Eyes of the Skin: Architecture and the Senses

THE CITY AS SUBURB
A History of Northeast Baltimore since 1660
ERIC L. HOLCOMB
Foreword by Kathleen G. Kotarba
“Holcomb gives a sound history of the architecture of northeast Baltimore County, and he expertly ties house, business, and church forms to the social status, ambitions, and financial capacities of the various waves of people who populated the area and imposed through their buildings their version of what the northeast corner meant as a place.”—JOURNAL OF SOUTHERN HISTORY

PATAPSCO
Life Along Maryland’s Historic River Valley
ALISON KAHN
Photographs by Peggy Fox
With an introduction by Robert Coles
“Patapsco is a portrait of a region as seen through the memories of its elders, the eyes of a photographer, and the sensibilities of a writer and oral historian. Through narrative and images, it reveals the connections between culture and place, between past and present.”—W. RALPH EUBANKS, author of Ever Is a Long Time

CITY TREES
A Historical Geography from the Renaissance through the Nineteenth Century
HENRY W. LAWRENCE
“Beautifully written and handsomely illustrated, City Trees draws on maps, plans, drawings, archival sources, written accounts, travelers’ records, and historic and current photographs to describe the public spaces of cities where trees, parks, and public gardens appear and explains the ways these spaces were used by people at times when key urban landscape practices were first being shaped and recorded.”—JAMES A. New Views on R. Buckminster Fuller
Edited by HSIAO-YUN CHU and ROBERTO G. TRUJILLO

In this book leading scholars in architecture, design, history, and communications discuss the work of R. Buckminster Fuller in the context of the larger social and cultural patterns of the twentieth century.

“Buckminster Fuller was one of the twentieth century’s greatest philosophers regarding human intention, anticipation and design. His ideas were boundless in scope and fearless in aspiration and have affected human thinking from the level of the molecule to the galaxies. This collection offers new glimpses into his universe of interests.”

This latest volume in the Society of Architectural Historians’ Buildings of the United States series analyzes the architecture, landscape, and planning patterns of the capital of Massachusetts and forty-one surrounding cities and towns that fan out from Boston Harbor. The term “metropolitan” here emphasizes both the range of the project and the importance of this area in introducing regional planning to the United States. Extensively illustrated with photographs and maps, and supplemented with a glossary and bibliography, the book assesses built form from initial colonial settlement in the 1630s through twenty-first-century additions to the Boston area landscape.

ARCHITECTURE DEPENDS
Jeremy Till
"A provocative declaration of war on utopia, powered by a fuel rich in social justice and sharp humor. Architects, hide it from your clients and your students—it is an unusual and explosive mixture that produces difficult questions like spores. With this book Jeremy Till raises the starting price on all our discussions of architecture.”
— Paul Shepheard, author of What is Architecture? and Artificial Love
232 pp., 22 illus., $24.95 cloth

LE CORBUSIER AND THE OCCULT
The Code
J. K. Birksted
“Birksted’s brilliant and tenacious investigation into the complex and somewhat murky social foreground and spiritual background of Le Corbusier’s formative years in La Chaux-de-Fonds has forever changed the ways the Master of the Right Angle will be remembered. A tour de force!”
— Robert Jan van Pelt, University of Waterloo
416 pp., 177 illus., $44.95 cloth

BECOMING BUCKY FULLER
Loretta Lorance
“Becoming Bucky Fuller is an intellectual experiment singular enough to have pleased the prodigious polymath himself. By refusing the biographical conventions Fuller forged into his own life story, Loretta Lorance demonstrates how in the late 1920s he formulated not only the Dymaxion House, but his own public persona as well. Based on close readings of deep archival research, Becoming Bucky Fuller makes clear that one more item must be added to the long list of Fuller’s inventions: himself.”
— Sandy Isenstadt, History of Art, Yale University
288 pp., 7 color illus., 59 black & white illus., $29.95 cloth

THE GRID BOOK
Hannah B Higgins
“The title of this book does not begin to describe how subversive its intentions are: Higgins’s review of the deep history of the grid rescues it from whatever claims Modernism has made to its form and function, and more precisely identifies the grid as a tool of human cognition, which has happened to have a profound effect on our visual culture throughout history.”
— Lorraine Wild, award-winning designer, co-founder of Greybull Press, and member of the faculty at the California Institute of the Arts
317 pp., 60 illus., $24.95 paper

CAMPS
A Guide to 21st-Century Space
Charlie Hailey
“While camps may appear like rather simple physical environments made of prefabricated repetitive shelters that permanently seek to perform their temporariness, Hailey demonstrates how complex a set of spaces camps can actually be. With almost one thousand refugee camps in more than forty countries, and tens of thousands of the other types discussed, it is increasingly apparent that no one, not least architects, can any longer ignore this emergent type of environment.”
— Eyal Weizman, Goldsmiths, London University

SIMULATION AND ITS DISCONTENTS
Sherry Turkle with additional essays by
William J. Clancey, Stefan Helmreich, Yanni A. Loukissas, and Natasha Myers

CRYSTAL AND ARABESQUE

Claude Bragdon, Ornament, and Modern Architecture

By Jonathan Massey

“Massey recognizes in a little-known turn-of-the-century American architect a body of work that challenged the core of modern architecture with its prohibitions against ornament, normative emphasis on rationalism, and narrowly instrumental view of technology. Massey’s combination of interdisciplinary breadth and substantial knowledge of architecture make this excellent book a significant contribution to architectural, art, and cultural history.”

BETWEEN GARDEN AND CITY

Jean Canneel-Claes and Landscape Modernism

By Dorothée Imbert

“An original work that sheds light on the overlooked modernist Belgian scene, focusing on the work of the remarkable garden architect Jean Canneel-Claes. Thanks to Dorothée Imbert’s solid new interpretation and the exciting visual materials found in the archives, the genealogy of modernist landscape in Europe is significantly clarified.”
