Editorial Fellowships at the Pacific Historical Review, 2010–2011

The Pacific Historical Review offers two year-long graduate editorial fellowships that run from September 16, 2010, through September 15, 2011, for graduate students enrolled in the Portland State University history program. Both fellowships provide a stipend, a graduate tuition waiver, and support for travel to a major professional conference as a representative of the Pacific Historical Review.

The Caroline P. Stoel Editorial Fellowships, endowed in 2001 by the Stoel family, the Wessinger Foundation, Ann and William Swindells, Edmund and Harriett Hayes, and Robert and Cecilia Huntington, carry, respectively, annual stipends of $10,000, usually awarded to a second-year student, and $8,000, usually awarded to an incoming student. Entering students, however, are eligible for either fellowship.

These fellowships offer an excellent opportunity to explore careers in history beyond teaching, preparing a student for work in the field of historical editing and writing for national, state, and local historical societies and journals, university presses, and more.

For further information about fellowship applications, please consult our website (www.upress.edu/journals/phr) or contact David A. Johnson and Carl Abbott, Editors, Pacific Historical Review, 487 Cramer Hall, Portland State University, Portland OR 97207-0751. Complete applications must be postmarked no later than February 15, 2010, and interviews will be begin to be scheduled within two weeks. Fellowship recipients for 2010–2011 will be announced in April 2010.

For information about the graduate program in history at Portland State University, consult the department website (www.history.pdx.edu) or contact Professor Richard H. Beyler, Graduate Coordinator, Department of History, Portland State University, Portland, OR 97207-0751.
