

representations

Fall 2011 • Number 116

SPECIAL ISSUE:

THE HUMANITIES AND THE CRISIS OF THE PUBLIC UNIVERSITY

*Edited by Colleen Lye, Christopher
Newfield, and James Vernon*

COLLEEN LYE, CHRISTOPHER
NEWFIELD, AND JAMES VERNON
Humanists and the Public University PAGE 1

WENDY BROWN
The End of Educated Democracy PAGE 19

GEOFFREY GALT HARPHAM
From Eternity to Here: Shrinkage in American
Thinking About Higher Education PAGE 42

SARAH AMSLER
Beyond All Reason: Spaces of Hope in the Struggle for England's Universities PAGE 62

CHRISTOPHER L. CONNERY
Marches Through the Institutions:
University Activism in the
Sixties and Present PAGE 88

SUZANNE GUERLAC
Humanities 2.0: E-Learning in the Digital World PAGE 102

BOB MEISTER
Debt and Taxes:
Can the Financial Industry Save
Public Universities? PAGE 128

RANDY MARTIN
Taking an Administrative Turn: Derivative Logics for a Recharged Humanities PAGE 156

REFLECTIONS ON A YEAR OF PROTEST AT BERKELEY

ANANYA ROY
“We Are All Students of Color Now” PAGE 177

SHANNON STEEN
We Are All Arts
Departments Now PAGE 181

GEORGE LAKOFF
The Brain, the Mind, and the Threat to Public Universities PAGE 185

University of California Press